RELATING TO PUBLIC SAFETY.

Chair Nakashima, Vice Chair Matayoshi and members of the Committee, thank you very much for the opportunity to submit testimony on S.B. 664, S.D. 1, H.D. 1.

The Department of Accounting and General Services (DAGS) strongly supports this legislation authorizing the development of the new Oahu Community Correctional Center.

A new facility is critical to the Department of Public Safety in fulfilling their responsibility to provide safe and secure services to certain members of our community. The current facility is, in parts, over 100 years old, and is neither adequate nor appropriate to meet today's correctional needs. Escalating maintenance costs, the lack of a safe and efficient work environment for corrections staff, and the inability to address detainees with special needs or mental health issues are underscoring the importance of this project. Additionally, the new facility will allow the State to provide inmates with healing, and subsequently, transformational, programs and services that aim at a successful integration back into their home communities. This is necessary now for current and immediate future inmates who require treatment and services that PSD is challenged to provide in the inadequate, obsolete buildings that comprise the current center.

Thank you for this opportunity to provide testimony on this very important matter.

RELATING TO PUBLIC SAFETY.

Chair Nakashima, Vice Chair Matayoshi, and Members of the Committee:

Senate Bill (SB) 664, Senate Draft 1 (SD1), House Draft (HD) 1 seeks to authorize the development of the new Oahu Community Correctional Center (OCCC) pursuant to Section 26-14.6, Hawai'i Revised Statutes (HRS). This measure would also prohibit the transfer of the operations of the new OCCC to a corporation as defined in Section 414-3, HRS. In addition, SB 644, SD1, HD1, seeks to appropriate $330,000 for the Hawaii Correctional System Oversight Commission (HICSOC) Coordinator position and necessary support staff for the Commission.

The Department of Public Safety (PSD) offers comments in support of this measure only as it relates to the need for a new jail for Oahu to alleviate persistent overcrowding and to provide services and rehabilitative programs to include culturally-based programs in a humane environment. PSD agrees that the inclusion of additional culturally-based programs would be prudent and beneficial to inmates and the community.

Testimony on Senate Bill 664, SD1, HD1

The Department notes that funding for the HICSOC was authorized in Act 179, SLH 2019, but was not included in the Governor's Executive Budget for the fiscal biennium 2021 to 2023. During these troubling economic times, any appropriation outside of the Governor's budget may negatively impact the priorities as outlined in the budget. PSD, therefore, defers comment to the Office of the Governor on the bill's proposed appropriation of $330,000.

Thank you for the opportunity to present this testimony.

STATE OF HAWAI‘I
OFFICE OF THE PUBLIC DEFENDER

Testimony of the Office of the Public Defender, State of Hawai‘i to the House Committee on the Judiciary and Hawaiian Affairs

March 23, 2021

S.B. 664 SD1 HD1: RELATING TO PUBLIC SAFETY

Chair Nakashima, Vice Chair Matayoshi, and Members of the Committee:

The Office of the Public Defender (“OPD”) supports in part, and opposes in part SB 664 SD1 HD1, which allows for the Department to commence with the development of a new Oahu Correctional Center. The OPD welcomes the increased role by the Hawai‘i Correctional Systems Oversight Commission in the building of a new OCCC along with providing it adequate funding. The Office the Public Defender continues to urge a moratorium on the construction of any new correctional facilities in the State and the construction of new or the expansion of existing correctional facilities without the expressed approval of the Hawai‘i Correctional Systems Oversight Commission (“HCSOC”), and without implementation of policy reforms such as bail reform and recommendations of the HCR 85 Task Force. While the current version contains positive language relating to cultural-based rehabilitation, more concrete reforms are needed.

As recommended in the House Concurrent Resolution 85 Task Force on Prison Reform, as embodied in its final report (“HCR 85 Report”), the State should “transition from a punitive to a rehabilitative correctional system”¹ and “immediately stop planning a large new jail to replace OCCC and establish a working group of stakeholders and government officials to rethink the jail issue and create a jail that is smaller, smarter, and less expensive than the one now under consideration.”²

Hawai‘i does not need bigger jails and prisons. What it truly needs is drastic reform of an incarceration system that is not only woefully outdated, but also severely unfair to people living in poverty, with mental health and substance use disorders, women, and Native Hawaiians, Pacific Islanders and Black communities.³

Currently:

- 40 percent of people incarcerated under Hawai‘i’s jurisdiction in 2018 were reported by the Department of Public Safety as being Native Hawaiian though Native Hawaiian make up just 18 percent of the State’s adult population.⁴
- The number of women incarcerated in Hawai‘i grew 1265 percent between 1990 to 2017.⁵
- 40 percent of individuals at the O‘ahu Community Correctional Center have not stood trial or are awaiting sentencing.⁶ Many if not most of these individuals are locked up because they can’t afford to meet bail.

No conclusive research has indicated that increased jail incarceration has a meaningful impact on crime reduction.⁷ In Hawai‘i, our prison population has increased 670% in the last 40 years.⁸ And our incarceration rate has risen to the point that if we were a nation instead of a state, we would rank fifth in the world, behind United States, El Salvador, Turkmenistan and Cuba (excluding the other 49 states).⁹ But this has not made us one of the safest places in the world.¹⁰

Incarceration does not come cheap. In 2017, Hawai‘i spent $255 million on corrections, accounting for 3 percent of the state’s total general fund spending that year.¹¹ Corrections general fund spending increased by 263 percent between 1985 and 2017.¹² Feeding and caring for an incarcerated person costs $198 a day in Hawai‘i.¹³ Pre-COVID19 we were spending around $209,000 a day ($76 million annually) to incarcerate more than 1,000 people statewide simply because they were too poor to afford bail.¹⁴

The State should divert the over half billion taxpayer funds from the construction of the large new jail towards community reentry programs, transitional housing, criminal justice and bail system reforms, and community-based programs that have a proven track record to be effective.

Consistent with a moratorium, the development of a new mental health facilities within the Department of Public Safety should not commence without the approval of the Oversight Commission. In fact, additional resources are needed to support and develop less restrictive and therapeutic alternatives, such as the Hawai‘i State Hospital and community mental health care facilities. Mentally ill individuals should not be placed punitive environments like jails and prisons, but rather they should be treated in therapeutic health care facilities.

We thank you for the opportunity to comment on S.B. 664, SD1 HD1.

To whom this concerns,

The following information is presented as a demonstration that I Edison H. Miyawaki have both the proper relevant experience and core values as a lead developer to provide the State of Hawaii with a Design-Build-Finance-Maintain solution for the OCCC Replacement Facility. I offer the following information that includes some background history along with approximate a timelines for both my initial interest and efforts for the development of a Hawaiian Facility along with more recent relevant developments:

Background History: My initial interest in prison improvement began many years ago during my senior year in medical school while conducting my thesis. A part of my subject matter was to improve the health and wellness of inmates, housed in an occupied correctional facility. I began issuing doses of vitamin B-12 and studying the effects of the B12 on the health and wellness of the inmates as experimental subjects. Being in that facility triggered something in me, that there must be a more humane way to house justice offenders.

All through my adult life, I have always wanted to help and find ways to improve the quality of life for the people of the State of Hawaii. With that goal in mind, in 1994, I was introduced with the prospect of designing and constructing a new correctional facility for Hawaiian inmates at a site located in the Halawa area of Oahu. This project although developed fairly far along, never got off the ground due to many internal and external factors. From this experience our team gained many lessons learned for which we are not going to repeat on the new facility.

More Recent History: In 2016-2017 Mel Choy of Media-Five introduced me to Peter Sangiorgio of Arrington Watkins. Peter and I quickly developed a not only the mutual interest for developing a new state of the art correctional facility for Hawaii, but developed a long term friendship built on respect for our very well aligned visions and core values.

It is important to note Peter and the Arrington Watkins Team have developed quite the resume for justice design, with Peter alone having completed the design and construction management for over 45,000 correctional beds over the past 26 years. Peter and I spent quite a bit of time together discussing our shared visions for designing not only a more humanistic correctional facility, but a correctional facility that would be designed specifically and appropriately for the State of Hawaii.

Peter has introduced me to another key member of our team - Mike Harling of Municipal Capital Markets (MCM). Mike and Peter along with the Arrington Watkins team have developed several correctional and non-correctional projects together for federal agencies that have used alternative financing as a means for providing the owner's with the most cost efficient means of funding their projects.

An additional key member of our team for which Peter has introduced me is the construction team of Hawaiian Dredging for which Peter has worked on several large projects over the years through various team member relationships. Since the time of our agreement to partner together, the Hawaiian Dredging has added another significant teaming relationship, that of the Layton Construction Team. Layton is a very large national general contractor with a specialization for the construction of justice facilities, having completed several large correctional facilities.

Peter has also assembled a team of both relevant specialty local engineers and designers as well as incorporating some additional expertise not found in Hawaii.

About the Facility: Together this team has had many internal meetings together and have developed a State of Hawaii specific concept facility following six internal tenants:

- The facility should reflect a facility of rehabilitation and healing that includes substance abuse counseling and treatment, mental health treatment, continuing education, medical services, and vocational training to ensure inmates are success on the outside once released.
- The facility should be a reflection of the Hawaiian Culture with recognizable cues to the Hawaii people.
- The facility should be a positive reflection of how justice is now served in the State of Hawaii.
- The facility should be sustainable, utilizing best practices for energy conservation.
- The facility should be scalable with the ability to adjust to the right size based on both short and long term bed space capacity.
- The facility should be safe for all users such as the public, staff and inmates alike.

Our team's initial design concept was developed around the Environmental Impact Statement document signed by Governor Ige in August in 2018. This concept provides a total of 1,322 beds of various security classifications. Of the total beds, 250 to 300 beds are to comprise a work furlough or reentrant facility, again to ensure all inmates that spend time in this facility are better citizens once released.

The planned facility is to be located at the existing Animal Quarantine site at Halawa. So additional key information related to our current concept:

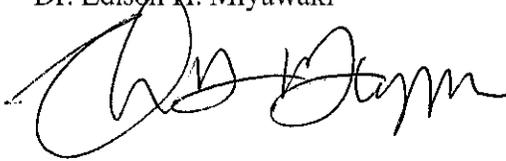

- For any extra beds – There is the potential to use the beds for lease to house others state inmates

- Financing: The Miyawaki Group will be responsible for providing the financing as a design-build and lease/back to the State of Hawaii, and at the conclusion of the 30 year term, the EHM Group would donate the project back to the State.
- Operation by state wholly by local union membership
- We are planning to include a 700 stall covered parking garage
- We are planning on construction a new State agriculture administration building.
- The State will continue to oversee operation with union members
- The project will establish maximum inmate population, monitor crucial re-enter program and facilitate educational and treatment programs for all.

As you have read, our project team has spent many long hours conceptualizing our latest approach for the development of the new OCCC Replacement Facility. I have spent several years meeting with various law makers and key decision makers discussing how our latest proposal for a new facility, is both keeping with the best interests for the Great State of Hawaii in all dealings. I have had a very long road to arrive at our current position and current proposed new OCCC Replacement Facility. I can assure everyone from the State of Hawaii that we have assembled a team of unmatched quality and expertise and I can be available and welcome any further discussion as a means to both introduce the quality four proposal and answer any questions someone might have.

Sincerely,

Dr. Edison H. Miyawaki

The Office of Hawaiian Affairs offers the following COMMENTS on SB664 SD1 HD1, which would require the Department of Public Safety (PSD) to build a new O‘ahu Community Correctional Center (OCCC). OHA appreciates the amendments made to this measure, which seek to better address the root causes and correctional approaches underlying the mass incarceration and extreme overcrowding problems in our correctional facilities, by requiring programming focused on cultural-based rehabilitation at any new facility, and requiring input from the Hawai‘i Correctional Systems Oversight Commission (Oversight Commission) in the new OCCC’s plans and designs. OHA further urges this Committee to consider the implementation or incorporation of the recommendations of the HCR134 Pretrial Reform Task Force and the HCR85 Prison Reform Task Force— which do seek to systemically transform and improve our correctional systems and approaches – as a prerequisite or required condition for the development of any new correctional facility, including a new or expanded OCCC.

Hawai‘i’s incarcerated population has reached a historic high, due to several decades of policies that have favored the expansion of our correctional facilities over the adoption of evidence-based alternatives to incarceration.¹ The Native Hawaiian community has been particularly impacted by the state’s approach to criminal justice and corrections: Native Hawaiians and part-Native Hawaiians make up approximately 21% of the general population, but 37% of our prison population.² As recognized by the Legislature itself in 2019, to address the alarming increase in our incarcerated population and the disproportionate impact of incarceration on Native Hawaiians, Hawai‘i should transition from a punitive to a rehabilitative correctional system, and seek to implement evidence-based alternatives to incarceration.³ Such an approach would not only reduce our incarcerated population, but it would also more effectively rehabilitate pa‘ahao, reduce recidivism, improve public safety, and save taxpayer dollars.

¹ See HCR85 TASK FORCE, CREATING BETTER OUTCOMES, SAFER COMMUNITIES FINAL REPORT OF THE HOUSE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION 85 TASK FORCE ON PRISON REFORM TO THE HAWAI‘I LEGISLATURE 2019 REGULAR SESSION 1 (2018).

OHA does appreciate the inclusion of certain requirements for the construction of new correctional facilities, including requirements for culture-based rehabilitation programming and for input from the Oversight Commission in facility planning and design. Such requirements may help to facilitate the planned transition of our criminal justice approach towards a more rehabilitative model that can more effectively and efficiently achieve our recidivism and public safety goals, and reduce the need for the continual expansion of our correctional facilities.

OHA does urge the Committee to consider further requiring the implementation or incorporation of the recommendations made by the HCR134 and HCR85 task forces, as well as the Oversight Commission, as a prerequisite or required condition of any new or expanded correctional facility, including OCCC. OHA believes that the recommendations proposed by the HCR134 and HCR85 task forces, as well as the Oversight Commission, would help to eliminate Hawai‘i’s overdependence on incarceration and mitigate the impacts of mass incarceration on our pa‘ahao, communities, and taxpayers. For example, the HCR134 Pretrial Reform Task Force has recommended implementing and expanding alternatives to pretrial detention, such as utilizing clean and sober residences, structured living facilities, treatment programs, and other community-based resources, and establishing a court hearing reminder system for all pretrial defendants released from custody.⁴ The HCR85 Task Force on Prison Reform has recommended improving and expanding evidence-based rehabilitative programs, creating an Oversight Commission, improving the reentry process, and reforming the cash bail process.⁵ Unfortunately, many of these recommendations have yet to be fully implemented. Requiring the implementation of these recommendations as a prerequisite or condition of any new correctional facility would ensure that we do not continue to favor building new facilities over a meaningful reexamination of our failed criminal justice approach, which would otherwise only further exacerbate our mass incarceration crisis. Moreover, the implementation of these recommendations will meaningfully reduce our pretrial and general prison populations without sacrificing public safety, and significantly help to reduce the unjust burden of the criminal justice system on Native Hawaiians and other marginalized groups.

Mahalo piha for the opportunity to testify.

OPPOSITION TO SB 664 - BUILDING POVERTY CAGES INSTEAD OF HOUSING

Aloha Chair Nakashima, Vice Chair Matayoshi and Members of the Committee:

My name is Kat Brady and I am the Coordinator of Community Alliance on Prisons, a community initiative promoting smart justice policies in Hawai`i for more than two decades. This testimony is respectfully offered on behalf of the almost 4,100 Hawai`i individuals living behind bars or under the "care and custody" of the Department of Public Safety on any given day. We are always mindful that 1,075 of Hawai`i's imprisoned people are serving their sentences abroad thousands of miles away from their loved ones, their homes and, for the disproportionate number of incarcerated Kanaka Maoli, far, far from their ancestral lands.

Community Alliance on Prisons is in strong opposition to this measure that is a slap in the face to the community that has been questioning the millions of dollars enriching consultants while the community is suffering through this public health pandemic.

THIS BILL IS LIPSTICK ON A PIG

It requires PSD to build OCCC sans data analysis, research, and community input, and adds things that the community has been promoting for decades such as culturally-based rehabilitation. It also seeks input from the Oversight Commission on the new jail despite their bills requesting a moratorium that were killed and appropriates funds for the Commission.

THE BOTTOM LINE IS THAT THIS BILL IS ALL ABOUT BUILDING MORE CAGES ACROSS HAWAI'I NEI. DO YOU REALLY THINK WE DON'T KNOW THIS?

This bill makes a very clear statement to the community about what matters to our government and it is NOT the health of our families.

The community has been questioning the need for a humongous facility that will incarcerate many people suffering from public health and social challenges and who are innocent until proven guilty. We know that many people are imprisoned for poverty crimes and cannot make bail.

A review of the March 15, 2021 Department of Public Safety Population Report¹ should make everyone question what is really going on:

- The total population of OCCC is 888 persons
 - 54% (483 persons) are pretrial detainees and
 - 22% (192 persons) are probation violators.
- 76% (675 persons) are pretrial detainees and probation violators

The total cost of the 675 pretrial detainees and probation violators at a conservative $200/day²: $135,000 a day, $945,000 a week; $3,780,000 a month, and $45,360,000 a year. And that is for one jail in Hawai'i. We have been told that the day rate for incarceration in Hawai'i increased from $198 a day to more than $200 a day, however, we could not locate a cite for this increase.

It is common knowledge that OCCC has been in deplorable condition for decades but now, since it might mean short-term construction jobs, the legislature is suddenly very concerned about the conditions that the people their policies cage must live in.

SHORT-TERM JOBS FOR LONG-TERM GENERATIONAL HARM

The proposal to build a humongous OCCC with no community input and the secret negotiations by the Governor tell us that building a jail that cages people on the lowest rung of the economic ladder is a priority in order to get the economy rolling.

And while the government exploits the third-world conditions at OCCC, they totally ignore the fact that they are rolling over some of the most vulnerable people in our community.

Please, tell the truth. This bill is about the economy. It is not about the harms caused by the state through its failed and draconian policies. OCCC has sadly become housing for the unsheltered and O'ahu's de facto mental health center.

¹ Department of Public Safety, March 15, 2021 Population Report.

² CAP has been told that the day rate for incarceration in Hawai'i increased from $198 a day to more than $200 a day, however, we could not locate a cite for this increase at this time.

PSD reports that 40% of all people who went to jail in 2020 (6,591) – 2,636 persons – were individuals in Hawai`i who were living unsheltered or in emergency or transitional shelters on all islands. This is the correct number of unsheltered people admitted to Hawai`i jails.³

How can the data be ignored? How can the state not see what is right in front of us? 76% of OCCC are persons who are pretrial detainees and probation violators, many suffering from unmet public health, social, and poverty challenges.

Please, we ask that you think about what this bill does. It removes the community from one of the largest public works projects in Hawai`i and basically orders PSD to blindly build a huge facility that will require even more people who are jailed because they can't pay bail. Data show that these are the people who end up in prison. Is this the goal - to ensure that Hawai`i maintains its position as one of the world's largest jailers?

The misuse of jails in America is helping to drive mass incarceration and is part of a system that is neither economically sustainable nor beneficial to public safety, community well-being, and individual rehabilitation. Nearly 75 percent of both pretrial detainees and sentenced offenders are in jail for nonviolent traffic, property, drug, or public order offenses. Underlying the behavior that lands people in jail, there is often a history of substance abuse, mental illness, poverty, failure in school, and homelessness.⁴

PRETRIAL DETENTION has a significant impact on downstream criminal justice outcomes— both in the immediate case, and through the future criminal activity of detained defendants. Detention increases the rate of guilty pleas, and leads detained individuals to commit more crime in the future.⁵

The only way localities can safely reduce the costs incurred by jail incarceration is to limit the number of people who enter and stay in jails. This is no small task. How and why so many people cycle through jails is a result of decisions dispersed among largely autonomous system actors. This means that the power to downsize the jail is largely in the hands of stakeholders outside its walls. So only by widening the lens – looking beyond the jail to the decisions made by police, prosecutors, judges, and community corrections officials – will jurisdictions be able to significantly reduce the size of their jails, save scarce county and municipal resources, and make the necessary community reinvestments to address the health and social service needs that have for too long landed at the doorstep of the jail.⁶

³ CAP's prior testimonies on this bill misinterpreted the data we received and it has now been corrected. Please accept CAP's apologies for my error.

The DOJ came to Hawai`i in 1998 and they reported that in the eight jurisdictions they visited, they had never witnessed the intergenerational incarceration that they saw in Hawai`i. That was 23 years ago and things have not gotten much better.

The last thing you should consider is in these times of economic strife, where families are struggling to stay housed and to feed themselves, are the millions of dollars wasted on consultants who have no connection or apparent interest in the community outside of their four-color, glossy propaganda pieces.

To date, OCCC consultants have reaped $10.4 million from the hard-earned work of taxpayers and when you add that with the more than $14 million blown on consultants for the Maui Public Safety Complex in a section that lacks water, you might understand where the mistrust of the community comes from. There is never enough money to provide the services so desperately needed, yet there always seems to be money for consultants and more studies. We know what to do, we need the political will to do it!

The community has been working on these issues for decades. We have contacts across the world and follow innovative and evidence-based strategies to address the public health and social challenges our communities in Hawai`i, as well as other communities and counties around the world, must address with humane, sensible, compassionate policies.

This is why COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT MATTERS!

Citizens are ‘engaged’ when they play a meaningful role in the deliberations, discussions, decision-making and/or implementation of projects or programs affecting them. Accordingly, organizational and government leaders need to broaden the way they see their responsibilities to include roles as facilitator, supporter, collaborator, and empower of citizens and stakeholders. This change requires letting go of some of the traditional reins of power and trusting that citizens can and will effectively engage in the issues. The result is a partnership(s) that is nearly always healthy for a community and can more effectively address the issue or problem.⁷

Data-driven and evidence-based practices present new opportunities for public and social sector leaders to increase impact while reducing inefficiency. But in adopting such approaches, leaders must avoid the temptation to act in a top-down manner. Instead, they should design and implement programs in ways that engage community members directly in the work of social change.⁸

This is precisely what the community has been asking for – a data driven, scientific, and humane approach to the challenges that create the pathways to incarceration for far too many of our people.

⁷ WHY COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT MATTERS <https://aese.psu.edu/research/centers/cecd/engagement-toolbox/engagement/whycommunity-engagement-matters>

⁸ COMMUNITY ENGAGEMENT MATTERS (NOW MORE THAN EVER), Stanford SOCIAL INNOVATION Review https://ssir.org/articles/entry/community_engagement_matters_now_more_than_ever

There is so much research on better alternatives that could be implemented to divert people who are on a pathway to incarceration. In fact, in Hawai'i, the Kawaiiloa Youth & Family Wellness Center is a great example of how to meet the needs of youth, some who are or were justice involved as well as others who are struggling with their own challenges.

It takes 'out of cell' thinking and courage to reimagine a system that heals rather than harms.

This bill sends a strong message to the community. It dispells any doubt we might have had about the state's lack of interest in correcting corrections. This bill makes clear that the state is going to run amok over the community for the easy "lock `em up" LAZY JUSTICE approach to justice.

It's all about tourism - the state needs to hide away those considered a blight, despite the fact that it's the state policies and draconian laws that are facilitating this human tragedy.

Please consider this before you vote. Consider what this bill is really about and who you are and will be hurting. Who will be incarcerated next? Will it be someone in your family? A friend?

Think about the intergenerational harm that building more cages causes in the absence of real programs to address the needs of the most impacted communities.

Each of your votes sends a strong signal to the community about the importance of our voices. Will your vote try to silence us?

We hope your vote is about justice, reason, humanity, and compassion.

We respectfully urge the committee to hold this bill.

Support of SB664 SD1 HD1
RELATING TO PUBLIC SAFETY

The Hawai'i Psychological Association (HPA) supports SB664 SD1 HD1 to develop the new Oahu Community Correctional Center. OCCC has been overcrowded for decades. The current facility is inadequate for maintaining security and providing quality mental health services. The new facility is badly needed and long overdue. Research literature clearly shows that overcrowding is correlated with violence and lowered mental health outcomes.

Thank you for the opportunity to provide input into this important bill.

TO: HOUSE COMMITTEE ON JUDICIARY & HAWAIIAN AFFAIRS
RE: Testimony in Opposition to SB664 SD1 HD1

Dear Representatives,

Young Progressives Demanding Action (YPDA) stands in strong opposition of SB664 SD1 HD1, which would require the Department of Public Safety to construct a massive new jail in Hālawā, conservatively estimated to cost $525 million, in the midst of an economic crisis.

Overcrowding in our jails and prisons is a real problem. But it's a problem that was born of deliberate policy choices that have created a costly and inhuman system of mass incarceration.

A bigger jail won't reduce overcrowding as long as these mass incarceration policies define our "justice" system. If the system is designed to lock people up, it will lock people up. Therefore, the larger size of the jail will only facilitate higher rates of mass incarceration.

Mass incarceration fails to keep us safer. In fact, there is some evidence that the damage it does to people and communities can actually increase crime rates.

Constructing and operating a costly new facility will therefore be a waste of taxpayer dollars at a time when we don't have any to spare.

Instead, we must implement what David R. Karp and Todd R. Clear, in their essay "Community Justice: A Conceptual Framework" (2000), refer to as "community justice" solutions. We should:

- End the use of monetary bail.
- Legalize (and therefore decriminalize) cannabis use.
- Expand community supervision for nonviolent offenders, including parole and probation.
- Divert people to mental health and drug treatment services whenever possible.

- End mandatory sentencing and “Three Strikes” laws.

We also need to dismantle the systemic racism baked into the criminal justice system that leads to mass incarceration and over-policing of communities & people of color in the first place. We need to, instead, implement anti-racist policies that confront and heal the generational trauma caused by White Supremacy.

Community justice policies will be far more effective at reducing our incarcerated population, while simultaneously saving taxpayers money, keeping communities safer and actually achieving real justice. These restorative, rather than punitive, solutions seek to heal and restore troubled people, returning them back to society in a condition in which they can contribute and live purposeful lives.

This bill—and the construction of a new jail—represents a doubling down on failed policy: building newer, larger incarceration facilities and, thereby, anchoring our society more firmly to an antiquated and injurious system of mass incarceration with a poor track record of reducing crime and a legacy of destroying lives and communities.

The United States now has the highest incarceration rate in the world. Between 1970 and 2010, the number of people incarcerated in the United States grew by 700 percent. We now incarcerate almost a quarter of the prisoners in the entire world, while representing only 5 percent of the world’s population. At no other point in U.S. history—even when slavery was legal—have so many people been deprived of their liberty.

We have an opportunity to pivot away from mass incarceration, from racist policies and from criminalization of poverty. Please kill this bill. Instead, support bills that will use community justice and antiracist policies to reduce our incarcerated population. At that point, the cost to fix up existing facilities, or build a much smaller one, can be discussed. But our ultimate goal should be to get to a point at which very few people, if any at all, need to be incarcerated.

Re: Testimony of the ACLU of Hawai'i in Opposition to S.B. 664, S.D. 1, H.D.1, Relating to Public Safety

Dear Chair Nakashima, Vice Chair Matayoshi, and members of the Committee,

The American Civil Liberties Union of Hawai'i ("ACLU of Hawai'i") writes in opposition to S.B. 664, S.D. 1, H.D.1, which requires the Department of Public Safety to development the new Oahu community correctional center ("OCCC"). While we support Section III of the bill, which appropriates funding to the Hawai'i Correctional System Oversight Commission, moving forward with plans to build a $525 million jail in the midst of an economic crisis, against the recommendations of the Commission tasked with overseeing the State's correctional system as well as those of the Task Force responsible for making recommendations for the design of future correctional facilities¹ is imprudent and harmful to Hawai'i's communities.

The Legislature has created multiple task forces, an Oversight Commission, and a criminal justice research institute, for the purpose of examining the state's criminal justice system, and the Legislature should heed these groups' recommendations. The H.C.R. 85 Task Force and the Oversight Commission both recommended that the State immediately halt plans for the costly new jail to replace OCCC until meaningful changes to our criminal legal system have been implemented.² This is necessary to shift the State's corrections system to a rehabilitative and therapeutic model. Halting construction of the jail is also fiscally wise. The Oversight Commission estimated that "each bed in the new jail would cost taxpayers $380,000 and the cost of housing a large number of pretrial detainees statewide is over $180,000 per day."³

Hawai'i must dramatically change its approach to corrections. This starts with reforming our pretrial system. Pretrial incarceration is one of the major drivers of overcrowding in Hawai'i's jails. Currently, roughly one-third of the individuals housed in Hawai'i's correctional facilities and more than half of those jailed at OCCC have not been convicted of any crime and are merely awaiting trial,⁴ most often because they cannot afford the amount of bail set in their case. While recent changes to pretrial practices are steps in the right direction,⁵ there is a long way to go before Hawai‘i can claim to have substantially ended its reliance on cash bail and reformed its pretrial system.

The ACLU of Hawai‘i believes that Hawai‘i’s families will continue to bear the human and financial cost of incarceration until we implement meaningful, community-based solutions and alternatives to incarceration. Many groups, including the ACLU of Hawai‘i,⁶ have proposed pathways for divestment from incarceration and reinvestment in our communities. Prior to authorizing any new correctional facility, the Legislature should implement the recommendations presented by community members, civil rights and criminal legal reform experts, and the task forces and commissions that it created for the purpose of proposing changes to our corrections system.

For the above reason, ACLU of Hawai‘i respectfully requests that the Committee defer this measure. Alternatively, we request that Section II be deleted from the measure and Section I be amended accordingly. Thank you for the opportunity to testify.

Sincerely,

Mandy Fernandes
Policy Director
ACLU of Hawai‘i

The mission of the ACLU of Hawai‘i is to protect the fundamental freedoms enshrined in the U.S. and State Constitutions. The ACLU of Hawai‘i fulfills this through legislative, litigation, and public education programs statewide. The ACLU of Hawai‘i is a non-partisan and private non-profit organization that provides its services at no cost to the public and does not accept government funds. The ACLU of Hawai‘i has been serving Hawai‘i for over 50 years.

⁵ See, e.g., Act 277 Session Laws of Hawai‘i 2019.

⁶ In 2019, the American Civil Liberties Union, in partnership with the ACLU of Hawai‘i and Urban Institute, released the Blueprint for Smart Justice Hawai‘i. This report resulted from a two-year research project dedicated to identifying key reforms in Hawai‘i that would cut the state’s incarcerated population in half and reduce racial disparities in Hawai‘i’s corrections system. The report is available at <https://50stateblueprint.aclu.org/assets/reports/SJ-Blueprint-HI.pdf> and may serve as a resource as the Legislature considers further reforms.

Kupuna who formed Ohana Ho'opakele visioned an organization that rescued our Pa'ahao or incarcerated brothers and sisters.

They envisioned building Pu'uhonua in every community that young people heading in the wrong direction could be sent to for healing even before being sent to prison.

The Covid pandemic should have shown us that we CAN release a percentage of our incarcerated without much effect upon society.

It is time for us to reset, to incorporate all the experiences of rehabilitating instead of punishment. It is time to think of better ways than incarceration.

We do not need another prison, and not at the cost anticipated!

Comments:

My name is Carla Allison and I strongly oppose SB664. We don't need a new OCCC. Overcrowding in our correctional facilities must first be addressed by significantly reducing the number of people being incarcerated. We need to end cash bail, create programs & beds to address mental & drug disabilities and provide housing. Research & studies repeatedly conclude community-based solutions have significantly better outcomes than incarceration. The already existing reports ordered by our legislature detailing solutions that have not been acted upon...solutions to ease our overcrowded jails/prisons. These solutions need to be acted upon before proceeding with any new development of incarceration facilities. The money being spent on planning & developing a new OCCC could be used for programs that address the root problems instead of taking the band aid approach of building more facilities. People with mental & drug disabilities and the unhoused don't belong in jails nor should citizens be jailed without a trial because they can't afford bail. We need programs that keep families intact, assist loved ones to overcome addiction, provide treatment for mental disabilities and house the unhoused. Please oppose SB664.

I am submitting testimony in opposition to the portion of this bill requiring the development of a new jail (OCCC). This part of the bill should be removed so that it requires funding of the HI Correctional Oversight Commission. How can the legislature commit to constructing a half billion dollar jail when it cannot even ensure the proper funding of it's own legislatively created Oversight Commission? Fund the Oversight Commission and get results and necessary information now! Dumping energy and continued funds ($10,000,000 already invested in planning) into a new jail that won't be ready for another 5 to 8 years from now (or more...look at the rail) is a complete mismanagement of taxpayer funds and legislative mandate when the Oversight Commission has been allowed to struggle without funding. RE: SB664 – In OPPOSITION

Hearing: Tuesday, March 23, 2021 at 2:00 PM VIA VIDEOCONFERENCE

Dear Rep. Mark M. Nakashima, Chair, Rep. Scot Z. Matayoshi, Vice-Chair and Members of the Committee,

My name is Wendy Gibson-Viviani, and I'm OPPOSED to SB664—a bill that would mandate the development of a new OCCC jail. We are at a moment in time when our thinking needs to change about how we address reducing crime and the overcrowding of jails and prisons in Hawai'i. The answers lie in reimagining our criminal justice system, moving away from a mass criminalization model and moving towards health and human services, housing, education, rehabilitation and restorative justice.

The Law Enforcement Assisted Diversion (LEAD) Program was developed two years ago to help meet those ends by diverting non-violent offenders into social services instead of incarceration. One goal of LEAD is to foster better relationships between law enforcement officers and the communities they serve, however, as of September 2020, LEAD HNL diversion referrals had not begun in earnest and LEAD was delayed by a funding cut (related to COVID-19).¹ LEAD is still in its infancy and needs more time to work before developing a new jail.

And, if we are successful at getting rid of our cash bail system (by passing SB1260), we will also be one step closer to realizing these goals. It is important to keep our focus and finances on this type of program, especially in the age of COVID-19.

I think it is shameful that our current cash bail system allows the detention of suspects who may be innocent. Knowing that about 70% of the people housed at OCCC have not been convicted of any crime, are merely awaiting a trial and cannot make bail is sickening. Many have become 'criminals' because they are homeless. Knowing that some may make plea deals (confess to crimes they may not have committed) to get out to save their jobs and families from ruin is also disgraceful.

Other States have successfully reduced their prison populations and saw a decrease in both violent crimes and property crimes. (New Jersey and New York between 1999-2012 and California between 2006 and 2012).

Hawaii's Legislature created multiple task forces, an Oversight Commission and a criminal justice research institute to assess our State's criminal justice system. Both, the HCR-85 Task Force (2016) and Oversight Commission (2020) recommended that the State IMMEDIATELY halt plans for a new jail until meaningful changes to our criminal legal system have been implemented.^{2,3}

I believe they are correct. Now is not the time to be pumping our finances into creating a massive system of incarceration. Continuing to mass incarcerate is not the way out of this mess. I believe we need to find more funding for the health and human services and harm reduction programs instead.

Hawai'i Correctional System Oversight Commission, 2020 Annual Report (December 2020) makes me hopeful that we can do better going forward.⁴

I am not opposed to the portion of SB664 that allows for a new mental health facility as many of our homeless/houseless populations suffer from mental illness. If that portion of the bill can survive without the provisions for building a new jail then please make it so.

Thank you for the opportunity to express my views about SB664

I oppose SB644. The Senate has two Bills currently proposed: SB1260 and SB758, bail reform and cannabis decriminalization irrespectively, which reduce incarceration and greatly alleviate overcrowding in Hawaii's detention system. The State is in economic crisis; important programs that help our citizens are being cut; spending money to unnecessarily incarcerate more people, who themselves may be in economic crisis is a bad fiscal and moral decision. Priority should be on spending resources to help us get through the economic downturn from the pandemic.

Aloha, my name is Carolyn Eaton, and I am an Oahu voter. I oppose this measure as written, even though the measure now includes funding for the Hawai'i Correctional Oversight Commission. My interest is in halting plans for construction of any new jail on Oahu, or on any other island, until the Legislature agrees to seek approval of the Hawai'i Correctional Oversight Commission. As proposed by the Governor, the new structure is bigger than we need, more expensive than necessary and inappropriate for evidence-based corrections aimed at rehabilitation of the population of committed felony offenders. This administration has done everything in its power to keep from entertaining the input of an island-wide community. I have followed its lip service behavior for two years.

The Legislature, in its wisdom, created the Hawai'i Correctional Oversight Commission. The State Administration has refused to fund it. If the Commission is funded as the outcome of this bill's passing, it will be further lip service to improving the status quo for Corrections in our State because current language seeks only "input" from the Commission, which is easily ignored.

The only desirable out come, in my view, is to kill the Bill.

RE: OPPOSE SB 664 SD1 HD1 RELATING TO PUBLIC SAFETY (SUPPORT PART III FUNDING THE OVERSIGHT COMMISSION)

Dear Chair Nakashima, Vice Chair Matayoshi, and Committee Members:

My name is Carrie Ann Shirota, and I am writing in opposition to SB 664 SD1 HD1 that mandates that the Department of Public Safety develop the new OCCC jail. However, I support Part III of the bill that provides full funding for the Hawaii Correctional Oversight Commission.

As background, I am a civil rights attorney and have previously served as the Director for Maui Economic Opportunity's Reintegration Program, a Public Defender and as a Counselor for a Native Hawaiian Program at UH Maui College.

Building new jails and prisons are not a solutions to overcrowding because it does NOT address the drivers of mass incarceration. Reimagining public safety requires us to divert and significantly reduce the number of youth and adults in our criminal legal system. It also means shifting the state's budget priorities away from mass criminalization and incarceration towards health and human services, housing, education, rehabilitation and restorative justice to ensure that individuals and families needs are met in our community.

Instead of building a new jail to replace OCCC, we should enact a Moratorium that will STOP us from spending millions more on planning and design consultants and contractors who profit from building and operating more jails and prisons.

The only consultants that we should be working with are those with a proven track record of helping states to decrease their incarcerated population through evidence based practices and promising strategies.

We have already wasted $10 MILLION on consultants working on the proposed new OCCC, and should not spend an estimated $500-600 MILLION to build a new jail where clear alternatives to exist, and would cost tax payers less money! (Not to mention the added fiscal costs of operating a jail annually).

We can look to other jurisdictions that have successfully and significantly reduced their incarcerated population by implementing evidence based strategies at different entry and exit points within the criminal legal system.

Other Jurisdictions Have Safely Reduced their Incarcerated Population While Reducing Crime Rates: From New York to Rhode Island

New Jersey Outcomes

- Between 1999-2012, NJ state prison population reduced by 26%, while the nationwide

state prison population increased by 10%

- The population went from 31,493 persons to 23,225 persons (decrease of 8,268)
- NJ's violent crime rate fell by 30%, while the national rate decreased by 26%
- NJ's property crime rates also decreased by 31% compared to the national decline of 24%

New York Outcomes

- Between 1999-2012, New York reduced its prison population by 26%, while the nationwide state population increased by 10%.
- Incarcerated population went from 72,896 persons to 54,268 persons (decrease of 18,268)
- NY's violent crime rate fell by 31%, compared to the national rate which decreased by 26%.
- NY's property crime rate fell by 29% compared to the national decline of 24%.

California Outcomes

- Between 2006 and 2012, California downsized its prison population by 23%, compared to the nationwide state prison population decrease of 1% from 173,942 to 134,211 (decrease of 39,731)
- CA's violent crime rate drop of 21% exceeded the national decline of 19%.
- California's property crime rate dropped by 13%, but that rate was slightly lower than the national reduction of 15%.

More recently, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Michigan, Michigan and South Carolina achieved prison population reductions of 14-23%. This produced a cumulative toll of 23, 646 fewer people in prison with no adverse effects on public safety. See, <https://www.sentencing-project.org/publications/decarceration-strategies-5-states-achieved-substantial-prison-population-reductions/>

Rhode Island Outcomes

Since Rhode Island's incarcerated population is most similar to Hawai'i in size, their data demonstrates the reductions we can achieve through targeted strategies.

Peak Year 2008	Population	Decrease	% Change
	4, 045	3,103 (-942)	23%

The Sentencing Project concluded that all five states achieved significant reductions through the following strategies:

1. Measures to Get Justice Reforms Underway and Maintain Momentum
2. Decreased Prison Admissions via Fewer New Prison Commitments
3. Decreased Prison Admissions via Reduced Incarceration for Failure on Community Supervision
4. Increased Prison Releases via Increasing the Feasibility and/or Efficiency Of Release
5. Increased Prison Releases via Requiring Less Time Served Before Eligibility for Release

PSD's Proposed Rationale to Build a New Jail is Not Supported by Evidence Based Research

The Department of Public Safety is pushing a proposal to create a new jail for 1000+ beds based on an outdated projected inmate analysis. The consultants hired to conduct this study were relying upon rising incarceration rates and trends, both of which are no longer valid. Amidst COVID-19, the jail population rates statewide have decreased - through a combination of court orders and collaboration between the Judiciary, Police, Attorney Generals, prosecutors and Public Defenders. This demonstrates the efficacy of targeted strategies to safely reduce the incarcerated population.

The consultants involved with pushing for a new jail did not consider meaningful alternatives in their EIS study. A review of the lengthy EIS study reveals that less than 2 paragraphs were Dedicated to alternatives to building a new jail - even though the data from other jurisdictions confirm the cost-effectiveness of implementing criminal justice reforms to reduce the incarcerated populations while simultaneously reducing crime rates.

Please hold SB 664 or pass this measure by striking PART II, and keeping PART III to fully fund the Hawaii Correctional System Oversight Commission.

I. Executive Summary

From 1980 until its peak in 2009, the total federal and state prison population of the United States climbed from about 330,000 to more than 1.6 million – a nearly 400% increase – while the total general population of the country grew by only 36%, and the crime rate fell by 42%.¹⁾ The catalyst of this prison expansion was policy changes that prioritized “getting tough” on crime.

The national prison population began a gradual descent after 2009, lessening by nearly 113,000 (6%) from 2009 through 2016. Several factors contributed to this decline: ongoing decreases in crime rates leading to fewer felony convictions; scaling back “war on drugs” policies; increased interest in evidence-based approaches to sentencing and reentry; and growing concerns about the fiscal cost of corrections and its impact on other state priorities. The state of California alone was responsible for 36% of the overall population decline, a function of a 2011 U.S. Supreme Court ruling declaring its overcrowded prison system to be unconstitutional and subsequent legislative responses to reduce the use of state incarceration.

Despite the decline, the overall pace of change is quite modest. A recent analysis documents that at the rate of change from 2009 to 2016 it will take 75 years to reduce the prison population by half. And while 42 states have experienced declines from their peak prison populations, 20 of these declines are less than 5%, while 8 states are still experiencing rising populations.²⁾

To aid policymakers and criminal justice officials in achieving substantial prison population reductions, this report examines the experience of five states – Connecticut, Michigan, Mississippi, Rhode Island, and South Carolina – that have achieved prison population reductions of 14-25%. This produced a cumulative total of 23,646 fewer people in prison with no adverse effects on public safety. (While a handful of other states have also experienced significant population reductions – including California, New York, and New Jersey – these have been examined in other publications, and so are not addressed here.³⁾

The five states highlighted in this report are geographically and politically diverse and have all enacted a range of shifts in policy and practice to produce these outcomes. All five were engaged in the Justice Reinvestment Initiative process, spearheaded by the Pew Charitable Trusts and the Council on State Governments, which was designed to work with stakeholders to respond to the driving forces of prison expansion in each state and to develop strategies for change in policy and practice.

This report seeks to inform stakeholders in other states of the range of policy options available to them for significantly reducing their prison population. While we provide some assessment of the political environment which contributed to these changes, we do not go into great detail in this area since stakeholders will need to make their own determinations of strategy based on the particularities of their state. We note, though, that the leaders of reform varied among states, and emerged among governors, legislators, criminal justice officials, and advocacy organizations, often benefiting from media coverage and editorial support.

The prison population reductions in these five states were achieved through data-driven policy reforms that pursued bipartisan consensus. Changes were advanced in the areas of risk and needs assessment, community supervision, alternatives to incarceration, sentencing and sanctions, prison release mechanisms, prisoner reentry and community reintegration.

Five key strategies and practices that were employed in these states are summarized below, followed by extensive reviews for each of the five states.

Five Key Strategies and Practices that Reduced Prison Populations

1. Measures to Get Justice Reforms Underway and Maintain Momentum

- High-profile leadership, bipartisanship and inter-branch collaboration (all 5 states).
- Leveraging outside technical assistance and research findings on evidence-based practices (all 5 states).
- Community engagement as a foundation of successful reentry and community reintegration (CT, MI, RI).

- Pilots or staged implementation as innovation incubators (CT, MI).

2. Decreased Prison Admissions via Fewer New Prison Commitments

- Crime reduction helped in all 5 states – but reduced crime is no guarantee of less imprisonment.
- Reductions in criminal penalties or adjusting penalties according to seriousness (all 5 states).
- Elimination of various mandatory minimum sentences, sometimes retroactively (CT, MI, RI, SC).
- Creation or expansion of specialty courts and/or other alternatives to incarceration (CT, MI, MS, SC).
- Modifications of responses to at-risk youth to disrupt school-to-prison pipeline (CT, SC).

3. Decreased Prison Admissions via Reduced Incarceration for Failure on Community Supervision

- Implementation of graduated intermediate sanctions for non-criminal violations (CT, MI, MS, SC).
- Engagement with community service providers and employers before release from prison (CT, MI, RI).
- State and local collaboration regarding case management and supervision (CT, MI, RI).
- Greater focus on intermediate outcomes (CT, MI, RI).
- Imposition of shorter terms of community supervision (MS, RI, SC).

4. Increased Prison Releases via Increasing the Feasibility and/or Efficiency Of Release

- Incorporation of dynamic risk and needs assessment into justice processes (all 5 states).
- Inclusion of releasing authorities in planning/implementation (CT, MI, RI, SC).

- Expanded initiatives to overcome barriers to the feasibility of release (CT, MI, RI, SC).
- Conditional release approval earlier in the process before eligibility for release (CT, MI, RI).
- Feedback to releasing authorities regarding outcomes to build trust in reentry (CT, MI, RI).
- Centralized reentry planning, trained specialists, and a goal of release at first opportunity (CT, MI, MS).
- Simplified and/or expedited release processing especially when backlogs in processing (CT, MI, RI).

5. Increased Prison Releases via Requiring Less Time Served Before Eligibility for Release

- Allowance or expansion of sentence credits through a variety of measures (CT, MS, RI, SC).
- Reduction of criminal penalties even though still prison-bound (CT, MI, SC).
- Modifications to sentence enhancements for aggravating factors (MS, SC).
- Reductions in time served prior to eligibility for repeat paroles after revocation (MI, MS).

Lessons Learned

Even with the population reductions achieved in these states, they continue to have prison populations that average more than three times those of 1980. Most of these jurisdictions expect to make additional gains based on current trends and justice reforms, but much of the changes enacted to date are experiencing diminishing returns and the next layer of effort will be even more challenging.

To advance decarceration further these and other jurisdictions will need to heed six lessons that we've learned from the states that have been successful in achieving effective and sustainable prison population reduction reforms:

- Adequate funding is critical to achieving reforms: Acquiring supplemental funding for implementation was a commonly reported obstacle to compliance with statutory requirements enacted in the state reforms. Mandates without sufficient dollars for implementation inevitably meant that some reforms were delayed, failed to achieve the full benefits, or were never implemented.
- Projected cost savings are difficult to achieve and actual savings are often overstated: Projections of the anticipated impact of reforms were occasionally off-the-mark. This was especially true of forecasts regarding expected cost savings, in part because of either faulty assumptions or overly optimistic projections of the benefits, but also because of offsetting cost increases in other areas that were either missed or unanticipated when calculating presumed impact – such as escalating prison health care costs.
- It is critical to target specific goals such as reduction of racial disparity: Explicit attention and goal setting must be focused on problems meant to be impacted by justice reform, as evidenced by only modest progress in these states on alleviating racial disparity (and primarily as a by-product of the reforms rather than because of directly addressing the problem). A couple of the states are now targeting the lessening of racial disparity as a new goal.
- The promise of Justice Reinvestment needs to be re-examined and augmented with other achievable and significant goals: The original concept of Justice Reinvestment referred to the goal of routing back into distressed communities the savings generated by closing prisons to address the precursors to crime and help neighborhoods recover from overuse of incarceration by financing housing, health care, education, and jobs. While most of these states have been successful in transferring resources within the justice system from prisons to community supervision, the goal of achieving broader redistribution of resources remains.

- Broad reforms require additional focus on issues beyond prison population reduction: Overcoming barriers to enable sustained or deeper prison population reductions include the need for:

-Post-incarceration employment solutions – still a struggling metric critical to reentry success.

-Release and reentry solutions for more serious or higher risk cases – typically excluded from reforms.

-Adequate community funding solutions – a poor stepchild compared to state-level reforms.

-Rigorous monitoring and evaluation of justice reform implementation to propel change.
